Visionary Student Panel October 24 & 25

Mark your calendars for the fourth annual Visionary Student Panel! This is an opportunity for students to share their ideas to address real-world problems and apply for funding to make it happen. Applications are open until September 19. If you know any interested students, please direct them to the VSP online application on the Research that Reaches Out website, QEP.mercury.edu.

If you are looking for campus events to share with your students, Visionary Student Panel is a great option. Not only does the audience get to see the amazing ways in which Mercer students are working to change the world, but they also get to provide valuable feedback that helps our presenters strengthen their projects and funding proposals.

If you would like a record of your students' attendance for your course, please email your course roster to Hannah Vann.

Affinity Groups are Back!

Faculty are invited to participate in the first Affinity Group for 2017-2018, Homelessness in Macon, led by Dr. Pam Brewer (Tech. Comm, School of Engineering). Full details about the purpose and goals of this Affinity Group are available on the Research that Reaches Out website.

Stay tuned for information about additional Affinity Groups as the year progresses.

Recap - QEP: The Workshop

On August 14, faculty from the College of Liberal Arts, Tift College of Education, the School of Engineering, and the University Library attended the Research that Reaches Out Year 4 workshop. This faculty development event featured the latest data on service-research at Mercer, planning for assignment design to help capture student learning in areas such as ethical reasoning and critical analysis, and opportunities for intercollegiate and interdepartmental idea sharing.

Thank you to the faculty who attended!
